FIFTY-FIRST YEAR

BLOOD RUNS FAIRLY IN STREAMS

BATTLE NEAR STRAITS OF DOVER MOST HORRIBLE OF WAR THUS FAR. LOSSES APPALLING; NEITHER SIDE WINNING

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The battle near the Straits of Dover is one of the most sanguinary of the war, continuing with unabated fury, but thus far without either side gaining any decided advantage. The Germans who, at terrible cost of life, succeeded Saturday in crossing the Yser canal between Nieuport and Dixmunde, have not been able to make further progress as the allies, according to a report from German headquarters, issued this morning, are obstinately defending their positions here. It is the same further south around Armentieres, Lille, Labassee and Arras. The opposing armies are delivering a fierce attack and gaining or losing a few miles or less, with a sacrifice of life that is appalling, the whole country-side fairly reeking with blood of the thousands killed or wounded.

KIND OF GERMANY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Although Germany contends that Canada, by sending troops against Germany, violated the spirit of the Monroe doctrine, Germany has no intention of attacking Canada nor attempting to colonize that dominion, according to a statement issued today by the German embassy here. The statement was made in amplification of the view expressed yesterday by German Ambassador Von Bernstorff that, by taking part in the war, the Canadians had justified an aggressive campaign against themselves.

SENATOR SMITH APPEALS FOR RE-ELECTION

MAKES SPEECH IN PRESCOTT ENDORSING THE WILSON ADMINISTRATION AND HIMSELF

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Last night while three or four hundred people were congregated in the open air about the Public Forum witnessin, "Ten Night in a Barroom" in moving pictures, United States Senator Marcus A. Smith addressed an audience that filled two-thirds of the Elks' theatre, in an endeavor to make those present think he should be re-elected to serve Arizona another term in the senate.

Senator Smith was introduced by Attorney T. G. Norris, who in a very eloquent and suave manner referred to him as the "beloved senator" from Arizona, and otherwise commended him as a faithful and able servant.

It was noticeable that the senator has failed considerably in his voice in the past year or two, but he still retains his facility for aptness and tact which has always characterized his public addresses, especially when he has had his senatorial iron in the election blaze.

Last night the burden of his theme was to keep the democratic party in power and prove to the Wilson administration that the state of Arizona upholds it in all it has done by returning one Marcus A. Smith to the senate. He declared he was not in the habit of asking people to vote for him, and that even now he desired more to be returned to Washington as an evidence that the state believed in the policies of Wilson than for any personal interest he could have.

He commended his address, which lasted for one hour and twenty minutes, by saying that as he grew older the sense of the responsibilities bearing upon him as senator grew heavier. From this he launched into the question of women suffrage, but closed on this point by leaving his audience about as much in the dark with reference to his position as they were before he commenced. He said he was glad so many ladies were present, because he had been misrepresented on the matter of women suffrage.

"If women will bring to the election the same good sense, refinement and virtue that is characteristic of their sex in other walks of life, the country will be benefited by her having the ballot," he said, continuing with the statement that he had no doubt the country and state would grow better because she was permitted to vote. Here, as though he had fallen through a bottomless barrel, he shifted his sails entirely from the question and drifted his ship out into the sea of national issues.

"This country can't be run except by a party," he declared. "No country ever has been run without a party and never will be, and there is no piece of governmental machinery half so adequate to successfully manage the affairs of the government of the United States as the democratic party of today. I would be a republican if I thought that party could handle the government better than the democratic party is handling it. But I have been a democrat all my life. My mother's brother was a law partner

GREAT BATTLE RAGES ON ROUTES LEADING TO THE RUSSIAN CAPITAL

Many Bitter Contests at Point of Bayonet; Thousands of Dead Line the Wayside; Russians Claim Advantage; People Fleeing From Holland

PARIS, Tuesday, Oct. 27.—The Havas agency has received from Petrograd the following official communication issued at the Russian capital: "Combats upon the routes leading to Petrograd and Radow have assumed the character of a great battle, the front extending ten versts (a verst is two-thirds of a mile), from Rawa to New Emiate, and Bialobrzegi and as far as the mouth of the river Iljanka. The evening of October 24 north of Rawa we attacked the Germans at the point of the bayonet inflicting considerable losses. In the village of Morchilio alone we buried over seven hundred Germans. In another bayonet combat near the village of Mazamerjeff we captured two batteries of machine guns. Our troops command the forest of Nemglove southeast of Rawa, where we took over four hundred prisoners. In the forest between Radem and Kozenitz tenacious combats continue. We have progressed along the routes from Nova to Alexandria, where we captured numerous prisoners and cannons. Stubborn resistance of the Austrians in Galacia is weakening our troops. We are making vigorous progress in the region south of Sambor and Staremiasto, where we took eleven cannons. The entire valley of the river Sprynie is covered with bodies of the enemy estimated in the aggregate to at least five thousand. All attempts of the Germans to resume a partial offensive east of the Prussian front has been repelled."

Its statements generally are accurate and are implicitly trusted throughout North America," says the editorial.

New Comet Visible In Northwest

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Larger than Halley's comet, which caused excitement in 1910, is a new one that has appeared and is now crossing the heavens, visible to the naked eye every night at 8 o'clock. Because of its greater distance from the earth it is not as discernible as Halley's and is said to be about 150,000 miles away. During the night it travels steadily from the northeast to the northwest, passing under the pole the greater part of the night, and is easily seen just below the polar star, at about 3 o'clock in the morning. This visitor adds another new star as belonging to the constellation Dorabus, and was first discovered in South America.

ATTORNEY CLARK AND SON IN THE TOILS

BOTH ACCUSED OF BATTERY; SON ALSO ACCUSED OF CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPONS

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Attorney Elias S. Clark and his son, Neill Clark, will appear this afternoon before Judge McLane to answer to three criminal charges, one against the former and two against the latter. They were arrested yesterday afternoon on warrants sworn out before County Attorney P. W. O'Sullivan by Chas. H. Bolman a laboring man, each being charged with battery and the son also being accused of carrying concealed weapons.

The battery information alleges that the two defendants attacked the plaintiff while he was at work at the new high school building, striking him a number of times with their fists, knocking him down and beating him up generally.

In the concealed weapon charge it is alleged that Neill Clark pulled a revolver on the defendant in a threatening manner and with evident intent of using the same.

Parted by Carpenters.

Mr. Bolman states that the trouble was the result of a dispute over a lawsuit which he had had some time since in which E. S. Clark was his attorney. He says that the two men came to the high school building yesterday forenoon when he was at work, and after some words proceeded to pounce upon him and strike him in the face with their fists, and that finally the fight was stopped by two carpenters who were working near by who interfered and took the men off him. He has several scratches and bruises on his face and hands which he declares are results of the melee. After the fight the Clarks left the building, he asserts, but in a short time Neill Clark returned and pulled a revolver from his pocket and flourished it in a threatening manner.

The warrants were sworn out a little after noon, and the men arrested by Deputy Sheriff Raible. They at once appeared before Judge McLane and pleaded not guilty, the hour of trial being fixed for two o'clock today.

Bolman is a plasterer by trade and at the time of the trouble was doing some mortar work on the new school building.

Mr. Clark Makes Statement.

Last night Mr. E. S. Clark was asked if he wished to make a statement in the Journal-Miner in connection with the arrests, and he said:

"I have nothing much to say. I went over to the school house to see Mr. Bolman about some statements he had made which were untrue and unjust, and one word led to another, until finally I made a pass at him with my fist. My son Neill had come in about this time and Bolman grabbed a shovel and struck at him, hitting him with the flat part of the shovel on the head. I grabbed at the shovel. He then struck at Neill a second time with the shovel, and I reached for the weapon as it descended, receiving the blow on my arm, which inflicted a cut. I then was compelled to become vigorous and went after Bolman, although he was not hurt. I do not think I hit him

HOLY WAR S PREDICTED IN MEXICO

UPRISING BEING LED BY PRIESTS; CARRANZA MAY RETIRE; HILL ORDERS CENSORSHIP; SITUATION CRITICAL

By Associated Press

EL PASO, Oct. 26.—"Holy war" in Mexico as a counter-revolution against the Carranza and Villa embroglio has been threatened, according to reports brought here by Americans and Mexicans who arrived today by various routes from Guadalajara. They said the uprisings against the constitutional authorities in central Mexico were being led by Mexican priests. It is indicated by local activities that the científico, or ex-federal element, which flourished under the Diaz-Huerta regimes, would combine in a new movement in trying to oust the constitutionalists who disagreed among themselves even before the triumph of their revolutions.

more than once or twice. Mr. Clark talked as though it was far from his intention, or that of his son, to have any such altercation with Bolman when they went to the school house as that which occurred, and said there would have been no trouble of any moment had not Bolman struck Neill with the shovel, a weapon with which one could easily be killed.

Carman Jury May Have Been Tamed With

By Associated Press

MINEOLA, Oct. 26.—Whether Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman will be tried again on the charge of murdering Mrs. Louise Bailey, in view of the disagreement Sunday of the jury in the first trial is an unsettled question, District Attorney Smith said tonight. It is believed certain, however, that the district attorney will move for a new trial if he determines positively there was an agreement made before the case closed among certain jurors to acquit Mrs. Carman. His investigations of this report are being continued, but so far as announced tonight, there are no new developments.
